FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

The Jumping Wishbone.
Here is an interesting suggestion: When the turkey has been duly served and nothing is left but a pile of bones, pick out the "wishbone"—the bone which is shaped like the one shown in the illustration.
Stretch across the bone a double string and twist the string around a piece of stick which just reaches to the top of the bone. On this point place a bit of soft pitch or any very sticky substance strong enough to grip the end of the stick; then place the wishbone on the table, and when the twisted string has overcome the resistance of the pitch the bone will jump high into the air. On this principle "jumping frogs" are made.

The Foolish Rooster.
"Here, chick, chick!" called Harry, opening the gate of his poultry yard. He had just traded off a small colony of rabbits for half a dozen fowls, and he was very proud of them, for they were beautiful birds, especially Narcissus, the handsome rooster.

He really shone in the sunlight as he came hopping out, with his scarlet comb, green tail and navy blue wings and breast. But I think his pretty head must hold a very small brain.

As soon as Harry let him out for exercise he stalked straight to the cellar window and gave it a savage peck. Then he stopped to crow and then rushed at it again, fiercer than ever.

You see, he thought that his own reflection in the glass was another bird, and he wanted to fight with it.

And so he could not take a stroll in the green grass, nor scratch in the flower beds, nor even peck at the grasshoppers and beetles that the hens made such a fuss about. He only fought his own shadow till it was time for him to be shut up again.

I think his brain must be very small indeed.—Youth's Companion.

Clipping Their Claws.
One of the hardest tasks that the keepers in museums and zoological gardens are ever called upon to perform is to trim the claws of certain wild animals. This is necessary, because if it were not done once in a while the claws would be apt to turn into the flesh from lack of exercise. In the wild state the animals use their claws so much in climbing, etc., that it keeps them sharp and wears them down to the right length. In captivity, of course, they cannot do this, and their keepers have to resort to all kinds of tricks to accomplish it. Even our pet cats find it necessary to sharpen and shorten their claws occasionally and can often be seen scratching on the bark of trees for that purpose.

Little Ruth Looked On.
Little Ruth Cleveland made her first public appearance in Washington recently, when she went with her mother and her governess to see the amateur performance at Albright's theater in which Secretary Carlisle's grandchildren danced. The affair was given by Mrs. Carlisle, with the assistance of a number of young society people, the money to be applied to the repair of The Hermitage, the home of Andrew Jackson.

The Twinkling Stars.
The twinkling stars, with angel eyes, begin to peep from darkening skies;
The daisy hides her lowly head, and dewdrops light the way to bed.
O Jesus, from thy throne of light
Watch o'er thy little one tonight!

Forgive the sins that I have done since first I uprose the golden sun,
And make my spirit clean and white, like moonbeams shining pure and bright.
O Jesus, from thy throne of light
Forgive thy little one tonight!

I thank thee on my bended knee for those dear ones thou givest me;
But, with my head on mother's breast, oh, let me ever love thee best!
O Jesus, from thy throne of light
Watch over those I love tonight!

—Christian Work.

Pat's Explanation.

A car driver in County Clare, Ireland, asked by his fare the name of some berries in the hedge, said:

"Oh, they're blackberries, your honor."

"But these are not black—they are pink," objected the passenger.

"Oh, yes, your honor," returned Pat, "but blackberries are always pink when they are green."—London Truth.

The "Angry" or Sensitive Tree.
The "angry tree" is a woody plant which grows from 10 to 25 feet high. This peculiar tree, if it be disturbed, shows every sign of vexation, even to ruffling up its leaves like the hair on an angry cat and giving forth an unpleasant odor.—St. Louis Republic.

The Text.
A 5-year-old Richmond miss, on returning from church one Sunday, was asked to repeat the text, whereupon she gravely quoted, "There'll be a candy social in the vestry next Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock."

PROMENADE COSTUMES.

WORD HISTORY.

Peck was once only a poke or bag. Farwell means may you fare or travel well.

Taboo and tattoo are of Polynesian origin. Broadcloth took its name from its unusual width.

Moleskin is so called from its smooth surface, like the skin of a mole. Idiot once meant a child and was used in an affectionate style of address.

Gauze is believed to have this name because it was first made at Gaza. Daisy is the day's eye or the eye of day, a name applied to this flower because of its fancied resemblance to the sun.

Foreglove is a corruption of folks-glove, the allusion being to the fairies and to the resemblance to the finger of a glove.

Carat is a standard of gem weight because carat seeds or the seeds of the coral flower were used to weigh diamonds.

Bank was once the bench which money changers set out in the market place of Venice on which to display their piles of change.

Treacle once meant an antidote for poison; then a sweet liquor used by druggists to disguise the taste of bitter medicines; lastly molasses.

Alligator, albino, buffalo, cigar, cargo, cannibal, molasses, sassafras, soda, tornado, veranda and a great many more words are from the Spanish.

Posters took their name from the fact that in former times the footways of London streets were separated from the drives by a line of posts on which advertisements were displayed.

Algebra, almanac, cipher, zenith, zero, talisman, alcohol, alkali, amber, camphor, cotton, crimson, jar, laudanum, lute, mattress, sugar, amulet, arsenal, magazine and a few other words are from the Arabic.

Tariff was originally the name of a Moorish chief, who, having a port in Spain, near Gibraltar, was accustomed to levy toll on passing vessels. His toll became a regularly understood thing, and the amount was added to the price of the goods.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE STAMP OF STYLE.

Black and white effects are still the rage.

Blouse waists in every style were never in greater favor than at the present time.

Very pretty shepherd's check changeable silks are used for fancy waists, blouse vests and accessories on plain fine wool gowns.

Wide, plainly cut skirts, with one very wide box plait in the back or three fluted plaits, are trimmed with narrow folds or rows of braid.

Some of the new white wool capes are collaretted and lined with white moire, and frequently there are a parasol and sailor hat en suite.

Butter colored laces remain in high vogue, and among the choice garnitures used by Parisian dressmakers are ecru silk laces outlined with gold thread.

In arranging the hair the parted locks over the forehead are most liked, but they must be slightly waved and brushed back in an easy fashion to look as natural as possible.

Among the stylish black hats are those showing a combination of chip and neapolitan braid and trimmed with accordion plaited black silk muslin damask roses and jet aigrets.

Plain and dotted pique or linen duck is made up for street suits for the summer. Sometimes the dotted material forms the costume and the plain pique the vest, and vice versa.

Fayette costumes are made up by fashionable dressmakers as skirt and bolero jacket to wear with shot and dotted taffeta or surah silk waist, or else one of plain corded silk of some becoming shade striped with lace insertion.

STAGE GLINTS.

Philip Ott is ill at his home in Chelsea, Mass.

Jennie Yeamans will sail for Europe this month.

O. H. Butler has leased the Bijou theater at Washington.

By advice of her physician Maggie Cline will rest for a few weeks.

Marie Laurens recently joined the Pauline Hall Opera company as prima donna.

Charles Dickson has accepted and will produce next season a comedy entitled "A Jolly Good Fellow."

E. H. Vanderfelt has been engaged as leading man and Fred A. Everill as comedian for Julia Marlowe next season.

Anna Robinson is winning praise for her work in "A Temperance Town" in the part formerly played by Miss Miskel.

Richard Mansfield has closed a successful season of 38 weeks. He has carried a company of 39 persons by special trains during his tour.

E. S. Willard has secured the English and American rights of "The Woman in White," in which he will play Count Fosco.

Charles Bradley and Edward Paulton have written a play called "The Eye Opener." They say that only two men can play the leading part—Nat Goodwin and Charles Dickson. The latter will play it.

A burlesque opera called "Peter Stuyvesant" was produced in Albany recently by amateurs of that city, including members of Company A, of which organization the author, William S. Corliss, is a member.

No Food For Thought.
Mrs. Van Kuit (the hostess)—Are the ladies of the Dunc club all present.
Chorus of Voices—Yes.

Mrs. Van Kuit—I am very sorry, ladies, to have to make the announcement, but it will be impossible to hold our usual literary session today. The caterer forgot to send the refreshments.—Chicago Record.

She Didn't Scare.
Marshall—What the mischief is the matter with you, Raymond? Been held up by some highwayman, or have you been in railway disaster?
Raymond—Well, I can't say I've done either. Last night I just hid under the bed to scare my wife.—Life.

Absurd.
"The new president has no more idea how a sewing society should be conducted than a child."

"What did she do?"
"Planned a lot of sewing for the members."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A PI Break.
Editor—Dr. Endue has sued us for libel.
Assistant—What for?
Editor—I wrote, "The doctor took the patient's pulse before he prescribed for him," and the intelligent compositor set it up "pulse."—Truth.

KICKS FROM KANSAS.
No man can have a good head and a bad stomach.

Isomen are beginning to check their generous impulses.

No man and his wife ever agreed on the money question.

We like nearly any sort of man better than a thoroughbred.

Women never get over the notion that they are entertaining angels unawares.

With a young man every day is Sunday. With an old man every day is Monday.

Most women are positive geniuses at fixing up and looking well on almost empty pocketbooks.

There is one good thing about the man with a trouble on his mind. He doesn't break into your office with whistle on song.

A great many men have a "commanding presence" who haven't anything else to command. It is the compensation of nature.—Atchison Globe.
